

BUCKS in ACTION

"In this project Art Studies Year 2 took the photo transfer method to a new level by transferring an image of themselves to a fabric apron. Their image was much larger than the Art Studies Year 1 students, so it took a lot more patience and elbow grease to transfer a well-preserved image. Students started off by photographing themselves in black and white using a few photo techniques that we discussed and emailed me an image to print. Then they studied and practiced several embroidery stitches as well as the work of artist Victoria Villasana. After they transferred their image to the apron, students used several embroidery stitches that they practiced to add color, pattern, and pizzazz to their wearable art."
